DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 5-8 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. These claims are directed to apparatus having no recited structural limitation. Alternatively, they do not further limit their parent method claims, which already include a gyroscope.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2 and 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ebara et al (US 5922954). The examiner interprets the language of Ebara et al--that the load impedances are selected to have a desired relationship between sensitivity rate change and temperature--as being inherently equivalent to applicant's claimed language of adjusting the relationship between voltage output vs. temperature change.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2856

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3-4 and 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ebara et al (US 5922954). Ebara et al teaches to adjust the load resistors of a vibration sensor to change the temperature/output characteristics. Although it does not specify how the resistors could be adjusted, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to use a variable resistor to adjust the resistance. Further, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to use an effective resistance made up of a combination of a fixed resistor and a variable resistor to adjust a circuit resistance, so the variable resistance is made smaller to get better resolution of the adjustment vs. mechanical adjustment of the resistor, as well known to anyone skilled in the art.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Fujimoto et al (US 6089087) is cited for showing adjustment of drift voltage vs. temperature by adjusting the capacitance of the electrode sections of the detectors. The relationship between the capacitance differences, both alone and with respect to the load impedances, is recognized and adjusted to control the gradient of temperature characteristic.
